The History of Christmas Luminaria

Many current customs using light or fire may be traced to early origins. The history and symbolism behind the present day usage of luminaries is both inspiring and beautiful.

The first luminaries were bonfires of crisscrossed pinion boughs built in 3-foot high squares. Early Spanish families in the Southwest lighted three bonfires before their homes on Christmas Eve. The first small paper lanterns were made when colored paper was brought from the Orient. These fragile lanterns were placed on ground walls, rooftops and along pathways. Luminaries have become the substitutes for these early bonfires. But they have grown in numbers—from three to hundreds—and are used decoratively to outline driveways and grounds with a soft, radiant glow.

Now Boy Scout Troop 320 of Fuquay-Varina is pleased to help carry on this tradition to grow in the Fuquay-Varina and Holly Springs area through the annual sale of luminary kits. Won't you please continue the tradition and help Fuquay-Varina glow with the spirit of the holidays on Christmas Eve? Thank you!
